WEST WATERFORD.

Sketch of the late A. B. Carpenter.

Amos Bugbee Carpenter, whose death was briefly recorded last week, was born on the "Sacred Old Homestead" in Waterford, where his death occurred, on May 25, 1818. On June 24, 1847, he was married to Miss Cosbi B. Parker, daughter of Ezra and Hannah (Burleigh) Parker of Littleton, N. H. Mr. Carpenter was appointed postmaster when the West Waterford post office was established in 1855, and held the office until his resignation in 1888, when his wife succeeded him. He was elected a corresponding member of the New England Historic Genealogical society of Boston, May 5, 1847 and also elected to represent the town of Waterford in the state legislature for two years, in 1888. On June 24, 1897, Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter celebrated their golden wedding at the old homestead, when the old brick house built by Isaiah Carpenter, and the pleasant grounds overflowed with guests. The day was also the 69th birthday of Mrs. Carpenter, and her mother, had she been living, would have been 97 years old on that same day.

The old farm is a good one, consisting of 400 acres and has for nearly a century provided the Carpenter family with a living and something to spare. The present house was erected about 77 years ago, and is built of brick made on the farm. It is a solid, substantial, and roomy building, now containing many modern conveniences, unusual in most farm houses.

The life of Mr. Carpenter stretches back to the first generation of Waterford people, and almost to the beginning of Waterford history. He had an excellent memory, was identified with almost every Waterford enterprise and knew its people and history by heart. He spent his spare time for many years in writing up the history of the Carpenter family, which was published by him in 1898, and of which his portrait forms the frontispiece. It is a very complete family record.

To Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter were born seven children, five of whom are now living: Miner B. of West Concord; Mrs. S. J. Hastings of Waterford; Mrs. L. J. Cummings of Clinton, Iowa; Herbert, a lawyer in San Francisco and Mrs. Stillman Cutting of Concord.

A Pleasant Reception.

The people of both congregations in this village were invited to a reception at the Methodist parsonage Friday evening and though the day had been very rainy and the roads had nearly 100 gathered to greet Rev. F. E. Rainey and family. Rev. W. C. Clark, pastor of the Congregational church, gave a short address of welcome and in fitting words welcomed Rev. Mr. Rainey to his new home. The work for the cause of christianity and for the advancement of morality in the community. To this Mr. Rainey gave an appropriate and cordial response, defining his views of the work of different churches and expressing his desire that in the future there might be unity though not uniformity. Presiding Elder J. O. Sherburne added a few words of encouragement and congratulation. Cake and coffee were served and the evening passed very pleasantly with music, games and conversation.

PASSUMPSIC.

Death of Mrs. Mason.

Mrs. Betsey Ide Mason was born January 16, 1813 and died April 28, 1904. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ide, and was cousin to the late Jacob Ide of this place. She united with the Baptist church in 1832 and was the oldest member of the church, where she has been loved and honored throughout her long and useful life. In 1842 she married Edward D. Mason, who died in 1876. She was the last of her generation and the last of 70 own cousins, once counted among her kindred. She is survived by three children, Rev. Edward Mason of Boston, Frank W. Mason, with whom she has lived and by whom she has been tenderly cared for these many years, and Susie, Mrs. Curtis Harvey, of this place. She also leaves four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, in all of whom she was greatly interested. Although greatly enfeebled in body for some years, she retained her mental faculties to a large degree almost to the hour of her death and evinced a lively interest in the affairs of her church, the community, and in all current events of the age to the last week of her life. Her home, since her marriage, has always been in this village, where she was known and loved by all, and her passing, even at her advanced age, leaves a great vacancy in the home and in the community. The funeral was held in the church, Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. C. D. R. Meacham, officiating. Music was furnished by a mixed quartette consisting of Miss Bessie Wright, Mrs. L. H. Vitty, P. Finney and Wm. S. Spaulding.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, including a pillow of Easter lilies, roses, and carnations from the children, a sheaf of wheat from the church, of which she was the oldest member, a grand old-fashioned clock and a fine set of the only granddaughter, Miss Mary May of Boston, a garland of carnations and Easter lilies from neighbors, a large bouquet of carnations from her Sunday school class, and bouquets of carnation roses and heliotropes, a very unusual experience for a country pastor.

The Randalls have begun work on the old schoolhouse lot, preparatory to putting up a building.

Bradstreet's Vermont Weekly Trade Report.

Reports to Bradstreet's with a few exceptions, regarding Vermont trade, show a somewhat unsettled condition of affairs. The prolonged cool weather has been felt in the retail trade and in this respect has had a counter effect upon collections. There seems to be a hopeful tone and merchants are looking for better conditions if warmer weather prevails. The manufacturing industries generally are well employed. The overall factories are running short as the high price of cotton has affected their business particularly. The rainy weather during the latter part of the week is welcomed by the farmers and they express an opinion that the hay crop will be good, other things considered. The granite men are looking forward to an increase in business. The maple sugar season is at an end; from all sections reports show the largest amount manufactured this year that there has been any one year for over 12 years. The average amount made per tree is figured at 2 1/2 pounds. The quality is good and fair prices obtained. The canning factories are preparing to distribute corn for planting, lumber mills are running over time in order to get their logs cut up
